Party Lines Cleft in Electing Root and Cooper to Village Board

Root polls highest vote—Allen, incumbent, is defeated—Fire truck proposition loses on light vote—Total of 257 votes cast here.

Albert Root, Republican and former Mayor William Cooper, Democrat, were elected village trustees for two years at the village election held Tuesday from 1 to 6 o'clock here. The proposition for a new village fire truck was defeated by 35 votes.

Russell Allen, Democrat, present incumbent on the village board and conceded a chance for reelection was in third place on the balloting and Samuel LaGrange, Republican was fourth.

There were 257 votes cast and one spoiled. The tally for the candidates was as follows: Root 147, Cooper, 134, Allen 129 and LaGrange 103. From these figures it is seen that the voting was divided and not confined to party lines or sectional residence in the village as both candidates elected are from the south side.

On the proposition the voting was restricted to taxpayers only and those listed on the last assessment roll. The vote was 87 "no" and 52 for the purchase of the truck. It is apparent that many of those who signed the petition for the truck either did not vote for it or else did not vote at all. Many otherwise regular voters did not put in an appearance at the polls at all election day, some forgetting, some pleading "busy" and others being away.

The early hour voting indicated an average vote for the village election. It was expected that on the basis of 60 voting in the first hour that this average would be maintained throughout the day. At 4 o'clock, three hours after the polls had opened this average was still being maintained with about 180 voters having signified their intention of voting.

Many people entering asked if they could vote on the fire truck proposition. The law was printed on paper in front of the election workers and this was shown those who did not own property and were not on the assessment rolls. In some cases where they might be a question of double ownership of property, people actually produced the deed.

Only one voter raised objections over not being able to vote but when the matter was explained, the voter realized the law and did not insist on voting on the proposition. The voting machine was so fixed that only those who were eligible to vote could do so.

A large number of women turned out to vote at this election, in fact some of the workers stated there were more women voters than men. All of the official family of the village was on hand to vote early and also to supervise the elections including Mayor Sisto, Trustees Orr and Phelps and Russell Allen who was a candidate to succeed himself and also Albert Root, candidate on the Republican ticket.

Mary Horey is Chosen DAR Candidate

Miss Mary Horey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horey, Cameron Mills, will represent the Addison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Addison High School in the contest for the D. A. R. good citizenship pilgrimage.

Miss Horey submitted an essay on "My Place in the World of Tomorrow." And in addition was given the vote of the members of the Senior Class of AHS as the girl most nearly typifying certain ideals set up by the DAR.

The four characteristics desired include: Dependability including truthfulness, loyalty and punctuality; service, including cooperation, courtesy and consideration of others; leadership, including personality, self control and ability to lead and patriotism including unselfish interest in school, community and nation.

Last year over 5,000 high schools in the United States and 90 in New York State participated. The essay written by Miss Horey is submitted to the state chairman of this pilgrimage, Miss Jean Wells Merriam in Waverly. The winner of the state contest will receive as her reward a trip to Washington to meet other state contest winners.

Each contestant will receive a certificate signed by the President General, State Regent, National Chairman and School Principal. East state winner will receive a free trip to Washington from April 12 to 14 with all expenses paid including transportation, hotel, sightseeing trips and taxi fare.

Former is valedictorian with average of 92.65—Latter has 91.82 average for school work—Both active in extra curricular activities.

Mary A. Horey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horey, Cameron Mills is the outstanding student in the senior class according to figures released Wednesday by Principal Irving R. Gladstone. She will be valedictorian of the class of 1940. Her scholastic average for the four years of her high school career is 92.65.

Charles C. Whitmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orman Whitmore, Reservoir road will be the salutatorian of the class of 1940 for he is second highest with 91.82 for his scholastic average for his high school career.

Both students are commuters and active in school and extra-curricular activities. Mary is active in Commuters Club, dramatics, Re-

Edward Horey Promising Debater at St. Bonaventure

Edward Horey, freshman in St. Bonaventure is making a name for himself in debate circles there, for twice within a week he has appeared in public debates outside the college and acquitted himself very well.

One of the debates was in Olean before the Christopher Columbus Lodge on "Resolved that the United States shall maintain a policy of strict military and economic isolation towards all nations outside the western hemisphere." He was on the negative side of the question. He spoke before the Rotary Club on another occasion.

Attend Festivities in Alfred Friday Evening

Mrs. B. F. Short accompanied by Mrs. George L. Smith, Miss Helen Kneass, Mrs. Lucille Gabel of Addison and Mrs. Curtis Miller of Woodhull attended the St. Pat's ball at Alfred University, Friday evening. Miss Madeline Short, daughter of the first mentioned, was crowned queen of the campus during the intermission in the ball that evening.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. John Lowe entertained in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Edwin Cook, Thursday evening. Supper was served to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mauder, Edwin Cook, the honored guest Mrs. Cook and the host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. Lowe. The evening was spent with cards.

Attorney Crane Chosen School District Head

Recently elected school directors of the towns of Addison, Thurston, Cameron, Rathbone and Woodhull met in the First National Bank in Addison Tuesday morning and chose Attorney Charles Crane as their chairman for the coming year and Mrs. Filkins of Thurston as secretary. The inspectors of elections chosen are Harmon Perry of Rathbone and Mrs. Katherine Dartt of Cameron. There were eight present from Supervisory District Three. A resolution was passed specifying that future meetings shall be held in the office of Attorney Crane in Addison. The group will meet from time to time during the year to plan activities and conduct business.

Grange Men to Be Dinner Guests Here Mar. 29

Weeks of planning, working and burning the midnight oil will culminate Friday March 29 in a big dinner in the Grange Hall here. The men of the Addison Grange have renovated and changed the club quarters of the local chapter, repainted and repapered the rooms and changed the kitchen about. Most of the work has been done by members at night after their daily work and chores.

The women of the Grange, appreciative of the time and work given by the men, are planning a dinner and program, March 29 at which the men will be guests at a planned dinner. And under the direction of lecturer Miss Velma Perkins, a special program dedicated to the men will be presented.

Mrs. Jennie Mose is general chairman for the committee of women planning the affair. It is hoped that all Grangers will be present at this time to see the work which has been done and to pay tribute to the men for all they have done to beautify and make a more utilitarian Grange Hall.

Mr. Cooper Appreciates Support Given Him

William Cooper wishes to thank his many friends, both Democratic and Republican, who supported him in his election to the office of trustee at Tuesday's election. He will try to merit their support by doing what he believes will be for the improvement of conditions in Addison. His experience gained as mayor will be of value to the citizens of the community.—Adv.

Fawn Chased By Dog in Addison

A fawn was seen pursued by a hound yesterday running along the banks of Tuscarora Creek. The dog was only a few jumps behind the fawn when the latter in desperation plunged into the stream and struggled to the other side. The dog turned back seemingly unwilling to chase the animal through the cold water.

MISS GERALDINE PEPPER VISITS SCHOOL

The many friends of Miss Geraldine Pepper are happy to see her getting about a bit following her serious illness and long period of convalescence. She has been seen enjoying short rides about the village and on Tuesday visited school.

SUNDAY CALLERS —

Miss May Gridley and William Kester of Corning called on Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Karagan, South St., Sunday afternoon. Mr. Karagan, who has been acquainted with Mr. Kester since he was a small boy states that the latter has recently resigned his position in the chemical department of Corning Glass Works to accept a more lucrative one with an Ohio firm.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Thomas Stoddard entertained Sunday honoring her husband on his birthday anniversary. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boom, Ila and Donald Boom and Paul Farr of Horseheads; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boom, Audrey and Melvin Boom of Lawrenceville; the complimented guest Mr. Stoddard and members of the family.

Albert Maier Weds Elkland Girl—Live Here

Albert Maier, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smith, Maple street, was married Tuesday March 5, 1940 in a surprise ceremony. His bride is the former Anna Giannomasi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Giannomasi, Elkland. The young couple were united in the parsonage of the Corning Methodist Church by the Rev. G. A. Gaines. The attendants were John Smith, brother of the groom and Mrs. Anna Gaines. The couple had a honeymoon trip to Syracuse and the north.

The bride is a graduate of Elkland High School and since completion of her work there has been at home with her parents. The groom is a graduate of Addison High School, class of 1933. He has been employed in the J. S. Harrison woodworking plant here for the past three years. The co-workers in the plant presented him a set of dishes Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Maier will make their home on Maple street and later expect to take an apartment. Their many friends in Addison and Elkland join in wishing them many years of happiness and health together.

ADD CENSUS JOHN T. MILLER

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Miller, Steuben street, are the parents of an eight and one-half pound boy born in St. Joseph's Hospital, Elmira, at 1:25 a. m., March 20, 1940. The newcomer in Coach Miller's home has been named John Thomas Miller. Mrs. Miller and the baby are in excellent health.

Advertiser Editorial Reprinted in Dairymen's League News

The Dairymen's League News for March 19 carries a reprint of an editorial recently printed in the Addison Advertiser and written by Publisher Maurice E. Miller. The topic of the editorial was "Milk Plan Promises Much." This was a review of the proposed plan of five cent milk for relief and WPA clients in the metropolitan market and its effect on local and vicinity milk production.

Mr. and Mrs. Jamison and father of Painted Post, spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Orpha Hauff.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the War

Hitler and Mussolini held a two hour conference in historic Bremen Pass Monday while the world held its breath to see what the two dictators were now hatching up. Rumors were widespread that the Rome-Berlin axis was to be extended to include Moscow, but national undercurrents point otherwise. As the two dictators separated to return on their own trains Mussolini was said to have been smiling, while Hitler looked pale.

The first British civilian was killed on land this week when a flock of Nazi planes bombed Scapa Flow naval anchorage and the Orkney coast. Seven persons were wounded including two women.

Disconsolate Finns have marched out of the territory ceded to Russia rather than become dupes of the Soviet. A hundred thousand civilians who had clung to their homes in the war region in spite of danger will have to seek new homes in the less prosperous sections of the country.

Unemployment is estimated as 9 to 12 million persons, according to statistics gathered by the A. F. L., the C. I. O., the National Industrial Conference Board and a federal economist. Estimates show that there were about a million less persons employed in January than on the average for 1939.

Nearly 80 miners lost their lives in an explosion on the Ohio coal fields near Wheeling, W. Va. Rescue crews succeeded in reaching 112 of the trapped men and bringing them to safety.

The 25th Dutch ship was lost in the war when a steamer with the Netherlands flag hit a German mine yesterday.

Ad Club Luncheon Next Wed. in Baptist Church

The Home Bureau ladies will serve the Advertising Club luncheon next Wednesday noon. Owing to repairs and painting in the Grange Hall, the ladies have secured permission to use the facilities of the Baptist Church parlors. Charles Brewster is in charge of the program.

Game Club and Youths Distribute Feed for Birds

The Addison Fish and Game Club purchased an additional supply of corn which was distributed on the hills for the birds last Saturday by a group of Boy Scouts and other young nature lovers. The corn helped feed the birds, who are unable to dig through the deep snow to find sustenance. The club and boys who distributed the corn are commended for their work in behalf of the birds.

MOTOR TO FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hubbs of Hammondsport have been enjoying a three weeks motor trip to Miami Beach, Fla. During their absence their little daughter Harriett has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Hubbs.

Boy Scouters Map Campaign Of Improvement

Boy Scout leaders of Addison met at a dinner Tuesday night and conferred with Steuben Area Executive Wallace Hill on Scouting problems in Addison. There has been a reorganization of the Troop committee with Andrew W. Knebel as chairman, J. Amos Stiker as camping and activities man, Dr. Horace Aurl as troop relations committee man, Rev. Mondula C. Johns as placement committee man, J. E. Crane as finance committee man.

The troop is sponsored by the Advertising Club. The members of the troop committee are from that organization. Others who met with Executive Hill and the committee were: the Rev. John V. Axtell, chairman of the Board of Review, Glenn L. Sprague and Harry Mullen, other members of the court; Jeffrey Smith of Woodhull, committeeman from that community and the Rev. David H. Davis, of Woodhull, assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 27.

BAPTIST SUPPER SUCCESS

Women of the Baptist Ladies Aid Society realized $20 from their cafeteria supper held in the church parlors Saturday night. The women of the church contributed food and baked goods and all worked for the success of this venture. The money raised will be used for church and Aid activities.

TO MEET THURSDAY

The regular meeting of Tuscarora Chapter O. E. S. will be held in the chapter rooms Thursday evening at 7:30. All officers are particularly urged to be present since initiation practice will be held following the regular meeting.

Seniors Leave For Washington Tuesday Morning for Three Days

Class goal to be reached when group of 39 and two chaperons visit nation's capitol—Have held many events to raise funds—Invited to visit Representative Sterling Cole.

Washington will be the mecca for thousands of high school students next week. Trains, busses and private cars will pour thousands of school students into the nation's capitol for sightseeing trips through the various national and historic buildings and places of interest. Easter vacation is always a time of interest when tours are arranged to acquaint students with Washington.

Addison High School will be represented in that throng of students by 39 members of the senior class and two members of the faculty as chaperons.

The group will leave Addison early Tuesday morning and return early Friday morning.

The students who will go are: Darrell Hopper, Robert Hill, Paul Thomson, Charles Whitmore, James Strauss, Marvin Snyder, Rexford Robinson, William Root, Rumsey Reynolds, John Reagan, Warren Perkins, Ernest Matthews, Walter Perkins, Catherine Troy, Gloria Vona, Leona Easton, Mary Horey, Vivian Jacobson, Dorothy Jones, Geraldine Lewis, Emily Mantle, Bernice Myers, Shirley O'Brien, Doris Martin, Elaine Pawling, Mary Ellen Perry, Pauline Phillips, Emily Reynolds, Ailwene Saxton, Blanche Shelnarsky, Ruth Sherwood, Helen Strauss, Louis Dominick, Esther Docherty, Frances Colburn, Jack Casey, Shannon Bovee, Laverne Baker and Stanley Ackerson. The chaperons will be Miss Thelma Albright, faculty advisor to the class and William Lundrigan.

The students will leave here early enough Tuesday morning to be in Elmer at 9:30 when their train leaves on the Pennsylvania for Williamsport. Some students will take a box luncheon to eat on the train and others will buy their lunches. There will be a two hour wait in Williamsport. Dinner will be served the group on the train. Arriving in Washington at 8:45 Tuesday night, the group will be taken by bus to the Hotel Grafton. The rest of the night will be free. Wednesday morning the group will breakfast at 7:30 and board busses with trained guide for the Washington zoo, Arlington National Cemetery, Alexandria, Mt. Vernon, Lincoln Memorial and return for lunch in the hotel and again board busses for the Department of Justice or "G-Man" building, old and new National Museums and Library of Congress. Dinner will be served in the hotel and the evening will be free for individual trips, theatres or shopping. Breakfast Thursday will be at 7:30 after which the group will go to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, White House and return to the hotel for lunch. The afternoon will be spent in the Capitol building and Representative Sterling Cole, formerly of this village, has extended an invitation to the group to attend sessions of Congress and visit him in his office. The new United States Supreme Court building will also be visited. The final meal in Washington will be the dinner in the hotel after which the group will board busses for the railroad and return trip home, leaving Washington at 8:30 in a special car. School busses will meet the group in Elmira Friday morning at 4:45 to bring them back to Addison. Most of the trip is to be financed from a class treasury.

Engagement of Lena Vine Announced by Parents

Mr. and Mrs. John Vine, 22 Maple street, announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Lena Vine to Bernard Hurd, 259 Bridge street, Corning. The wedding ceremony will take place in the near future. Mr. Hurd is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hurd. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Campbell Central School, class of 1936 and of the Bath Business School. Mr. Hurd is a graduate of Painted Post High School and is employed in the Allen Grocery, Painted Post.

PERCY SMITH HONORED

Percy Smith was delightfully entertained at a birthday party held in his honor last Thursday night. The affair was in the nature of a pinocle-luncheon party arranged by Mrs. Smith. Guests from Corning won honors at cards with Mrs. Lee R. Lewis winning high for the ladies and Paul Widdowson high for men and Mrs. Widdowson low for women and Mr. Lewis low for men.

Maurice E. Miller was in Ithaca on business Tuesday.

Melting Snow is Relief to Drouth Hit Farmers

Flood conditions are feared in this vicinity with the amount of snow which is lying in the valleys and on the hills. However, farmers are taking the melting snows as a good omen, for the ground is being soaked with much needed water after several months of drought last year.

The water supply in local wells, springs and creeks began to fade last July and from then through September and October this vicinity witnessed the greatest drought in many years. Then along came heavy frosts and no snow, thus enabling the moisture to remain above ground and did not provide needed moisture for the soil. Wells were low and in many cases dry. Only in cases where wells were surrounded by rocky or sandy soil was the water protected.

Many farmers in the vicinity sold their cows owing to lack of water and feed from the drought. Now, with the snow clearing away, water is feeding the soil and there is rejoicing.

However, there is danger of too much water in the lowlands for with the snow melting and the thick ice in the river and creeks, there is danger of too sudden thaw and floods.

At present cool nights have retarded the thawing to enable the day's melted snow and ice to run off. Those situated in flood areas are praying this thawing and freezing will continue.

Fire Siren System Changed

Fire Chief John O'Keefe has announced a return to the old former method of reporting fires by siren in the village of Addison. In the village the alarm will be two or three and a long blast of the siren means the fire is out.

Under the system formerly in vogue, the firemen claimed they could not hear the siren and so missed many of the alarms.

As usual all reports of fires should be made immediately to the telephone office from which the siren is sounded.

Mrs. Thornton Dartt of Cameron called on George Widger Tuesday.

THE SPEAKING CONTEST

The American Legion is doing a worth-while piece of work in sponsoring the speaking contest on the subject of the Constitution. By the time the county contest is held early in April thousands of persons will have listened to the many talks given by students in various schools throughout the county. What is even more important there are probably a score of young people competing in the elimination contests who have made a close study of the subject in preparing to write essays.

This is of inestimable value, indeed. We have heard much about the Constitution over a period of six or seven years. There has been a great deal of criticism voiced by men in public life and many people have undoubtedly reached the conclusion our Constitution is an old, outmoded institution. Something that may have suited the needs of Revolutionary days, but too old-fashioned for streamlined 1940.

Nothing is farther from the truth. Our Constitution is a document which with fair treatment will endure the trials of ages to come. Any student of the Constitution who looks back today cannot fail to marvel at the fact such a strong, yet flexible document could have been conceived by men under the stress and strain of revolutionary fervor. One of the reasons, of course, for the greatness of the Constitution lies in the greatness of the men who conceived and wrote it. For some Divine reason there appeared on our infant national horizon a little group of intellectuals just at the crisis hour of our becoming a nation. Out of a population of three million people there sprang at that hour a little group of men so brilliant their equal could not have been picked out of all the millions in the succeeding generations up to the present. Where in our history can we match men like Franklin, Washington, Madison, Jefferson, Hamilton, Adams and Marshall?

Not alone to their brilliance do we owe the enduring success of our Constitution—it was their tolerance for each others' ideas which made possible a charter of strong government which could still preserve liberty.

These facts are an open book to anyone who will honestly read the history of our Constitution. Events like the Legion speaking contest are possessed of value aside from the opportunity presented young people to compete in public for prizes. The great value of the educational advantage of bringing to the minds of many persons the truth concerning our Constitution.

"MICROSCOPIC" BILLIONS

It was recently stated that the total indebtedness of Federal, State and local governments did not increase during the seven-year period from 1932 to 1939. In that period, according to this statement, the Federal debt increased "somewhat" but was offset by a corresponding falling off of the debt of states, cities and political subdivisions. In other words the public is supposed to believe that the public debt, on the whole, is no larger now than a few years ago, when a billion dollars looked like a lot of money even to a congressman.

The exact figures, as published in the Annalist and compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board, tells a vastly different story. Says the Annalist: "In the seven years ended June 30, 1939, the Federal gross debt (not counting the government-guaranteed debt, which on June 30, 1939, amounted to $5,469,591,592) increased "somewhat" from $19,487,009,766 to $40,439,532,411. Total state and local debts in the meantime "decreased" from $19,330,000,000 to 19,626,000,000, so that the total indebtedness of the Federal, State and local governments remained "practically unchanged", having shown the negligible, microscopic, infinitesimal increase of $21,249,000,000 from $38,817,000,000 to $60,066,000,000."

If the increase in the Federal debt had been offset, as reported, by a corresponding decrease in local debt there would be no local debt. In fact state and local governments on the whole would have a small surplus in their treasuries! So it looks as if one more effort to alibi our national debt has flopped.

FARM RELIEF AGAIN

Again Congressmen are talking about the agricultural problem. Again farm relief schemes are being proposed. Again the lawmakers are preparing to unleash the financial floodgates of the Treasury in an effort to bring prosperity to the farm.

There is a nostalgic note to all this. For farm relief has undoubtedly been the most persistent and long lived of all political issues, with the exception of the tariff. Every administration for decades has had a plan to offer. Every general election has seen both parties battling over different farm-aid planks in their platforms.

Without criticizing the motives underlying all these efforts, it is certainly apparent that every one of them has been ineffective. None has realized the hopes of its proponents. Further, the fact that farm relief plans change with every shift in political power, like all political activities, makes for waste, inefficiency and lack of results.

"NO FAITH IN PROMISES"

Students of world affairs have a new question to ask in a year which has proved to be the conundrum of the ages. The new mystery baffling practically everyone is, "What brought Finland to accept Soviet terms more drastic than pre-war demands, after fighting the Red machine practically to a stand-still?"

True enough, the Finnish army was nearly exhausted by months of defense which permitted the troops practically no rest as hordes of fresh Russians pressed upon them. A new line of defense had to be taken up as Viipuri had become untenable because the city was nearly encircled. The people were under great strain from constant bombing raids from the air. Supplies and food were running low and munitions were needed in tremendous amounts to impede the march of an army utterly callous to loss of life. But the Finnish troops showed no sign of cracking under the strain, and France and Britain declared themselves ready to send a force of 50,000 troops to the front. Why did the Finns give in at such a moment?

The reason given by Foreign Minister Tanner was because of lack of weapons and because the Finns "had no faith in the promises of others."

There no doubt, can be found the kernel of the whole bewildering list of questions regarding Finnish acceptance of Red terms, "they had no faith in the promises of others." The Finns had many examples of allied diplomacy to shatter their belief in promises of Britain and France. The Czechs had accepted those promises and found after Munich the echo of hollow words ringing in their ears. The Poles, depending on allied promises put up a bold front to Hitler and were left a desolate country after one of the most brief, destructive wars in the history of the world—a war in which not a single British or French plane flew to the assistance of Poland.

However, Czechoslovakia and Poland were not the first nations to rue the day they depended on British promises. Great Britain was one of the big powers that guaranteed the integrity of China in a treaty signed many years ago. Then along came Japan as anxious to try out her new weapons as a boy walking out with a new air-gun. Manchukuo looked defenseless and the Japs started moving into that huge northern province. Immediately U. S. Secretary of State Stimson protested and President Hoover conferred the British about joint diplomatic action against Japan, but Manchukuo looked a long ways from Hongkong and the British turned a deaf ear to proposals. Japan got what she wanted and the era of international lawlessness was launched on a fair sea of British indifference.

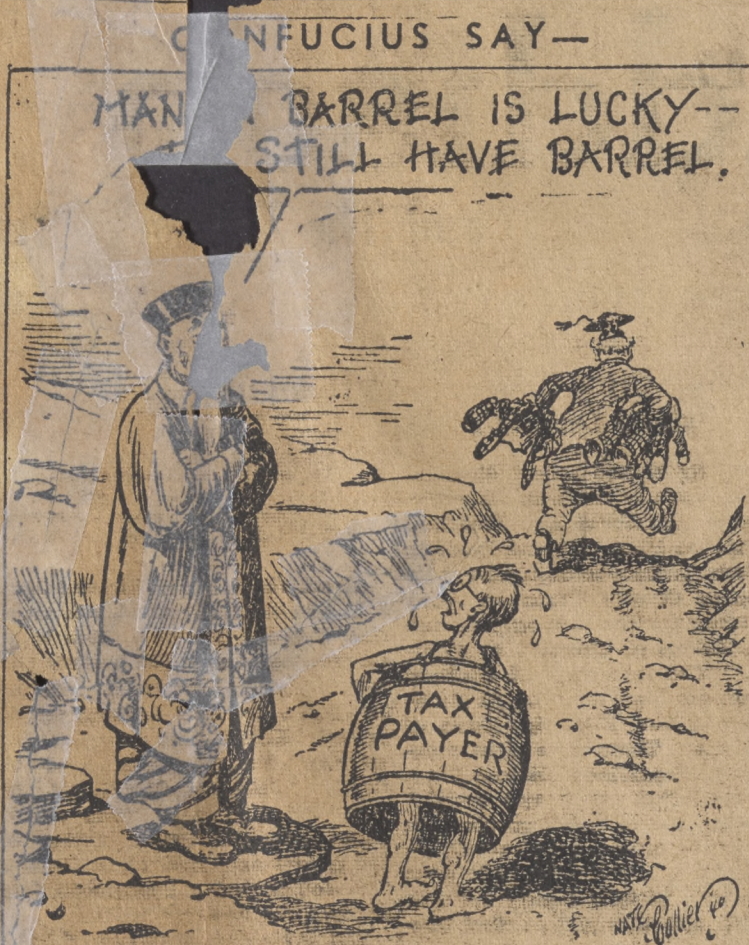

Japan's twisting of the Lion's tail was a signal to Mussolini who soon sent his legions to despoil the innocent Ethiopians. Britain threatened, cajoled and finally whisperingly turned her back on the second event in this new game of "Big Fellow Kill Off Little Fellow." Hitler now had his cue and there followed in rapid order the absorption of Austria, the betrayal of the Czechs and the obliteration of the Poles. Soviet Russia, no longer the Bear, but the Jackal, rushed in to take a share of the land deserted by fleeing Poles who found too late that British pacts of assistance were empty documents.

So the proud Finns with heads bloody, but unbowed, preferred to conclude a disastrous peace with the Jackal rather than fight longer while waiting for British assistance that would probably never come.

As for Britain and France, they have only themselves to thank for the loss of an opportunity to meet Germany and Russia on an advantageous front reinforced by new and vigorous allies. For the threat of a Communist on the border was real enough to Sweden and Norway to suppose they would have actively joined Finland if the allies had sent a substantial expedition against the Soviet. Without the presence of such a strong expeditionary force the Scandinavian countries could hardly be blamed for confining assistance to Finland to volunteers.

The result of recent events can be measured as another victory for Hitler. A force of fifty to one hundred thousand allied troops reinforcing Finland would have swung Sweden and Norway from neutrals to the side of Britain and France. Then the army awaiting orders in the Near East could have pounced on the Soviet from the south with the aid of Turkey, making a threatening diversion towards the rich oil fields, the products of which Hitler is dependent on for an extensive mechanized war. Taking the offensive in that quarter would quite likely have swung other Balkan states into the allied camp.

So the honorable defeat of Finland adds a new chapter in the history of this decade, a decade in which British prestige has suffered immeasurably by indecision and lack of initiative when crucial events hung in the balance. It is a chapter which should teach Americans impressively that our country must be steered clear of European quarrels at all costs. The allies had a golden opportunity to win this war by delivering a telling blow against the Soviet through Finland. They have muffed the opportunity and few world observers are willing to predict today that Germany cannot win in spite of the British blockade. Those who still say the allies are fighting our battles in this war should be reminded that European power politics are fundamentally selfish. America has no place meddling in them because there is nothing we need or want except the right to carry on commerce with all countries.

I'd like to be going to Washington with the Senior Class next week. It would be interesting to see the expressions of the members of the class and their verbal expressions on things they see and hear.

And speaking of seniors, next year they will be graduates. And what does the world hold for them? George Kling, district attorney of Steuben County, gave a swell talk on youth at Ad Club the other night. He praised those working with youth for keeping youth straight and acting as an unofficial law enforcement group in keeping youth out of trouble.

He made another suggestion which I thought good. He asked parents to bring their children to church as an example to the children not send the youth to church. He said, "there is nothing wrong with the churches. They are doing a good job." I agree with him most heartily.

Paying to have work done, which you should do your self is not good character building. Especially when you have time and have agreed to do the work.

Congratulations to the Eastern Railroads for bringing the two cent per mile back into vogue. I'm sure they will realize additional revenue from the change. And over long distances the rate may even go as low as one and one-half cents per mile. It seems cheaper and not half so much trouble as driving a car.

My pinocchio observations lately brought response from some pinocchio fans around about. A correspondent from Simons Hill tells me she likes the game and that they have several good parties up there and continue.

A double run doesn't happen often. I have heard about once in 15,000 games. I had one once, a double in hearts. Guess I have held about all the doubles there is. I've had eight Jacks, eight queens, eight kings and eight aces at different games. The eight king hand was the biggest stroke of luck however. We were playing as you were 4 handed, (we always play auction) with a kitty. The opposite two were 850. My partner and I between 200 and 300. I held 6 kings a couple of queens, a ten, nine and ace. I lacked a Jack for a run. I decided we were beat anyhow so took the trump by high bid. When the kitty was turned my Jack was not there but the other two kings were when count 200. Needless to say we won and it was a rubber too.

"We play to 1,000 a game. Hold 11 cards with four in the kitty—yes, it's a great game and like March weather it is variable. Every different town I play in I find different rules and counts for meld. The best of the game is it is suited for 2 to 8 players."

Mrs. Earl Madison of Catherine Creek sent this in and in view of some of my own trials trying to figure this classification business the following seems to fit it.

BELIEVE it or don't—this story from the Nutmeg State. A Southbury dairy farmer visited the state hospital farm to inspect a new, modern barn. As he walked through the grounds, an inmate broke from a line of patients and came running here.

KNOW YOUR LAW

By Carroll E. Mealey, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q. What type of motor vehicle accidents must be reported to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles?

A. All accidents wherein death or personal injury result.

Q. If a full report of the accident is made to police authorities, is it still necessary to report to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles?

A. Yes. Failure to do so is a misdemeanor.

Q. What accidents are investigated by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles?

A. All accidents resulting in death or serious personal injury; accidents in which police authorities have made arrests; accidents where the operator is 65 years of age or over.

Q. Can copies of accident reports be obtained?

A. Yes. Certified photostatic copies of accident reports are obtainable for $1.40.

up to him with outstretched hand. "By Golly, Ned," the inmate exclaimed, "I know'd they'd catch up with you! Now we can figure it out together. . . ."

A guard hauled the mentally-befuddled one back into the column and the Southbury Yankee went home. Along toward bedtime, the farmer jumped up from his chair, clapped his knees and yelled: "Sarah! Come here quick!"

His wife ran in from the kitchen and queried: "Well? What's wrong?"

"Nothing's wrong, Sarah, but I've been trying all evening to make out who that lunatic was at the hospital, and now I remember."

"Who was he?"

"Why, it was Lufe Atkins from up Rattlesnake way. He went crazy trying to figure out his milk check according to the classification method of payment."

"If you want a rugged game try 6 handed, 3 to a side and count double melds. By that I mean for example, one partner has 4 aces and another on the same side also has four aces, we count it 1000, as if one player held it all. Its hard on the score keeper but its fun. Your for better pinocchio Mildred Faye."

I still insist that contributors to this column must sign their name whether they want the name used or not. A good item was received on a card this week but only signed, "A Farmer."

And while using the pronoun "I" let me post-mortem to Russell Allen. I told you that unshoveled sidewalk would be your undoing. Yes, I know the village authorities promised to keep it clean in return for the use of the lot as a storage space, but it was hard for those who used the walk to understand that. Sorry, Russell, I hate to see you leave the board.

Andrew W. Knebel has been made chairman of the Boy Scout troop committee here and has appointed a new committee to serve with him and he hopes to give Scouting a "new deal" in Addison. More power to him. The old committee deserves credit for holding the thing together and were good in raising the annual drive for scouting here.

ASK The Scientist

Giant trees, animal's eyes, vitamins, irradiated milk, glaciers—that's a varied lot of topics, but interesting questions about all of them are answered here by the Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University.

If you have a question to ask the scientists, send it to the New York Press Association, The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Board will answer each week those questions considered most interesting and timely.

QUESTION: What is the oldest and largest living thing?

ANSWER: The oldest and largest known living thing is the redwood of California. This magnificent tree grows to a maximum size or diameter of 31½ feet. That means it is as wide as the average street and about as big as the average house. Some of the redwoods are 364 feet high or about four times as tall as the largest trees we find in this part of the country.

The known age of some of the redwoods is 4,000 years, which means that they were growing 2,000 before the coming of Christ to Earth and at a time when man was still in the late stone age in England. Some rose bushes and ivy vines attain unusual age, living for some 400 years, but the redwood is known to attain at least ten times that life span.—Prof. Nelson Brown, forester.

QUESTION: Can animals distinguish color?

ANSWER: Some animals can distinguish color but most of the experimental evidence which science has indicates that none of the lower animals can do so.

A peculiar condition with respect to being aware of color seems to exist in the class of animals known as mammals which include cats, dogs, horses, cattle and many other beasts. With the exception of man, monkeys, and probably rats, the entire group of mammals is probably colorblind and, hence, unable to distinguish colors.

If these animals react in the way that a totally colorblind man does when he sees a colored object, they probably see everything in different shades of gray.—Dr. Verius Lindeman, physiologist.

QUESTION: What are vitamins, why are they known as A, B, C, and so forth, and is it possible to make any of them in the laboratory?

ANSWER: Vitamins are chemical compounds which are absolutely necessary in the regulation of body processes. When men first discovered these compounds, they had no way of giving them chemical names because they did not know enough about them. So just to make it easy, they called the first one A and so on.

Vitamin C is made in the laboratory at the present time. Possibly the other vitamins will be laboratory-made some time in the future but they will not be produced commercially in the laboratory as long as we can get them more cheaply from plants or from animals that have eaten plants.—Dr. Albert L. Elder, chemist.

QUESTION: What is irradiated milk?

ANSWER: Irradiated milk has been exposed to ultra violet light. The ultra violet light can be obtained either from a carbon arc or a quartz discharge tube. It changes some compounds in milk into a different form so that the body can use them as vitamins.—Dr. W. R. Fredrickson, physicist.

QUESTION: What is a glacier and are there any in the United States today?

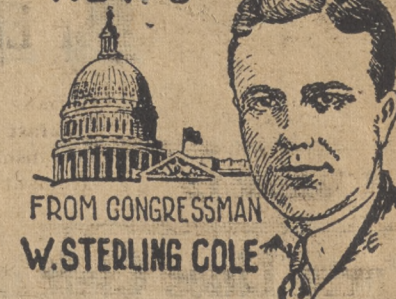

ANSWER: Glaciers are simply moving masses of ice which have been formed from accumulation of snow rather than from freezing of water. The United States has many thousands of small glaciers. We have them in Glacier National Park, on Mount Ranier, in the Cascades, and some small ones extend down through the Rocky Mountains as far as Colorado.

Glaciers occur wherever temperatures are low enough and precipitation sufficient to accumulate snow. Normally, that means glaciers are found in very high altitudes such as those of Greenland or Antarctica where one of the students from Syracuse University's department of geography is now with Admiral Byrd's expedition, or else in high mountains where the altitude causes very low temperatures.

Although it is a common belief that glaciers once covered the entire earth such has not been the case. In the geologic period just before the present there was a great extension of glaciers which came down as far as northern Pennsylvania and roughly paralleled the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. At the same time glaciers were extended over much of Europe, but it is not true that all of the world was ever covered with ice so far as our present knowledge goes.

If you wish to see a glacier, you will find those in the Rocky Mountains the nearest. If you wish to see a real large one, go to the Malaspina glacier in Alaska. To see a continental glacier you must go to Greenland or Antarctica for there are the only two in existence.—Dr. Sidman Poole, geographer.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Among the many useful bulletins of interest to the farmer, published by the Agriculture Department, is one describing the types and construction of "Homes for Birds". Hoping that this idea will catch the eye of some Boy Scout who might be interested in having a copy of the pamphlet for his troop work, I make mention of it with the suggestion that any person can obtain one by dropping me a card.

For several months, Members of the House have been impressed by the formidable looking brief case which Speaker Bankhead carries with him daily from office to home. The secret has just been divulged and it is now known that the case is not used for carrying papers relating to important matters of government but his lunch which Mrs. Bankhead prepares for him daily.

The recent statement alleged to have been made by President Roosevelt that Jim Farley should not have a place on the National ticket because of his religion has caused considerable furor here. Many feel that it was highly improper for the Chief Executive of a great nation whose foundation rests upon the principles of religious tolerance to make even a passing reference which might kindle the flame of religious bigotry.

For the first time in history, residents of the District of Columbia are feeling the torture of a local income tax and there have been countless protests against it. Last year the Congress succeeded in levying upon the residents of the District an income tax after several earlier unsuccessful efforts in which I had participated closely. It has been said that Washington is a "taxpayer's paradise" and when we realize that the real estate tax here is $17.50 per thousand, a 20 gasoline tax, a very small personal property tax, we can find very little sympathy with the complaint lodged against an income tax. You see, Uncle Sam pays for the operating expenses of the District in whatever amount that is not collected by local taxation.

The original commission of John Paul Jones, Revolutionary War hero of the American Navy, has recently been presented to the Secretary of the Navy and will be placed in the crypt of the hero at the Naval Academy. The commission, lost since 1850, is dated October 10, 1776 and signed by John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress.

The Nebraska State Republican Committee is split over whether or not to support Tom Dewey for the Presidential nomination. So serious is this dissension that at one time a strong faction inside the Committee favored cancelling the speech delivered by Dewey at Lincoln, Nebraska, last week. This group finally relented but lively differences over Mr. Dewey's qualifications are still waging in the State's Republican caucus.

Ashes on the Garden

C. B. Raymond
Many persons inquire about the use of ashes on the garden. The answer is that coal ashes may be helpful in modifying soil texture, but the value of wood ashes is questionable.

Many garden soils become too compact for the best growth of vegetables. This is particularly true where little or no stable manure or other coarse organic materials are plowed under. Fields on the farm have sods, manure, green manure, or coarse crop growth plowed under every year or two, and this helps to maintain the soil in good condition.

Since coal ashes are rough and porous, they help to reduce the compacting of heavy soils which results in better conditions for root growth. The heavier or more compact the soil, the greater is the benefit that may be expected, and the larger is the quantity of ashes that may be applied. The reverse is true for lighter soils.

The value of wood ashes is questionable, because they do not give this improvement to heavy soils. They may or may not help the garden, depending on the soil. Wood ashes have commonly been applied because of their lime and potash, and many old gardens have so many applications that the soil is already too alkaline. If beets or potatoes grow scabby, wood ashes should not be applied. A soil test is recommended to gardeners in doubt.

These Fine Foods for Easter Breakfast

In many families an elaborate Easter breakfast is a tradition and these delicious dishes will be certain to start the day right.

Scalloped Eggs and Ham
4 hard cooked eggs
2 cups white sauce
1 cup boiled chopped ham
1 1/2 cups buttered crumbs
Chop eggs and ham and add to the white sauce. Place crumbs and mixture alternately in a baking dish. Bake 20 minutes.

Fluffy Omelet
6 eggs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 tablespoons water
2-3 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Separate eggs. Beat whites until frothy. Add lemon juice and water. Beat until stiff enough to stay in an inverted bowl. Fold in beaten yolk. Start cooking at once in a pan hot enough to start coagulation, but not hot enough to form a crust. Cook over a medium flame for about 1/2 minute before placing in the oven. Bake for about 25 minutes in a 160 degree oven.

Easter Egg on Toast
Separate yellow and white of egg. Add vegetable coloring to white and beat very stiff. Place the stiff colored white on toast like a nest, put the whole yolk in the center. Salt and bake in a quick oven.

Baked Eggs
Butter gem pans. Break eggs and drop into pans. Put 1 tablespoon rich milk, a few bread crumbs and a sprinkling of ground ham over each egg. Season and place in the oven to bake.

Scrambled Eggs
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 to 2 tablespoons milk or cream
1/2 teaspoon fat
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
Add the milk and seasoning to the eggs. Heat the frying pan and add the fat. When warm add the egg mixture. Cook slowly until a creamy consistency stirring constantly from the bottom of the pan. A creamier product is secured by cooking over hot water. Increase the quantity depending upon the number to be served.

Bread Omelet
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoons soft bread crumbs
Soak the crumbs in the milk until it is absorbed. Add the beaten egg yolk and seasonings. Fold into the stiffly beaten egg white and cook in buttered pan. The mixture should be spread evenly in the pan and cooked slowly. When well cooked and delicately brown, underneath put in a moderate oven and cook until the top is dry and firm but not brown. Loosen the omelet with a spatula fold and turn onto a hot plate.

Baked Apples
Wash and core the apples, leaving the skins on. Be careful not to cut through the blossom end when removing the core. Fill the cavity with jelly, sugar and butter, allowing 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon butter and 1 teaspoon jelly for an apple of medium size. Put in baking dish and add water to a depth of 1 inch. Bake in a moderate oven until soft, basting about every 10 minutes with the syrup in the dish. Serve hot or cold with sugar and cream.

Brazil Nut Bread
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup shortening
1-2 cup milk
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 eggs
1 cup Brazil nuts, finely chopped.
Sift flour, baking powder and salt and set aside until needed. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, beating as you add. Add orange juice and grated rind. Add whole eggs, one at a time beating well after each addition. Add Brazil nuts. Then give the mixture an extra good beating and last fold in sifted dry ingredients, alternately with the liquid, adding about one third of each at a time. Mix well. Bake in a greased loaf pan about one hour in moderate oven.

Lamb Kidneys in Cream Sauce
Soak 6 kidneys in cold water for 30 minutes. Parboil slowly for 1 hour in a little water to which 1 tablespoon vinegar has been added. Drain, save liquor. Split kidneys, cut each half in 4 pieces. Make a sauce of 2 tablespoons flour browned in 2 tablespoons butter. Add 1-3 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper and a bit of Kitchen Bouquet to taste. Add 1-2 cup liquor drained from kidneys. Put kidneys in this sauce. When it comes to a boil serve at once on hot toast.

Dogs Chase Deer
On day last week two dogs chased a deer off the hill near the Earl Hayes farm. The snow being so deep the deer was exhausted and would have been killed by the dogs but for the fact that Mr. Hayes and Amasa Travis, rural mail carrier, drove them away, but not before they had torn a large piece out of its hip. Mr. Hayes shot the deer and Mr. Travis took it to a welfare officer in Cameron.

RUPTURE

SHIELD EXPERT HERE
H. M. SHEVYAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Mark Twain Hotel, Elmira, Saturday, only, March 30, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Mr. Shevyan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase in circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closing the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevyan will be glad to demonstrate without charge. Add. 6411 N. Richmond St., Chicago. Large Incisional Hernia or rupture following surgical operation especially solicited.

Episcopalians Favor

Fixed Easter Date

Because Easter comes on almost the earliest possible date this year and because of the firm grip which winter has been holding for many weeks, the question of having the great Christian festival on a fixed date has again been agitated.

The Rt. Rev. Bartel H. Reinheimer, Bishop of the Diocese of Rochester, called attention in a recent interview to the fact that the Episcopal Church of America has been on record for nearly six years as favoring a fixed date. The resolution putting the Church on record was passed at the Church national meetings in October 1934.

Introduced into the House of Bishops by Bishop Manning of New York City, the resolution favors "fixing Easter on April 8 as provided by the World Calendar because this comes nearest the actual date for the First Easter as determined by competent scholarship."

Following the adoption of the resolution, copies were sent to the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Ecumenical Patriarch at Constantinople, Pope Pius XI and to the Committee of the League of Nations which made investigations as to the wishes of Christian opinion on the question of the stabilization of Easter and the reform of the calendar.

The Nicene Canon adopted in 325 provides that Easter shall be on the first Sunday following the Paschal Full Moon which happens upon or near March 21st. The principal reason was that the pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great Easter festivities. The date of Easter may vary between March 22nd and April 25th.

Since the founding of the United States of America, Easter has fallen but once on March 22nd. That was in 1818. It will be on the latest possible date, April 25th, in 1943. Next year the date is April 13th.

CHAPTER CHATTER

For the first time in quite a few years the making of skis in industrial arts classes has become quite general. The heavy snows of the past two months has created much interest in this sport which originated in the north of Europe. Ash is used to make the skis and after shaping they are bent by boiling them for about one hour in real hot water. Then they are clamped for about 24 hours, after which they are given a coat of varnish and then they are ready. Many of the boys who had not been on skis until this year have become quite expert on them.

It is expected that about seven of the members of the Agriculture IV class will take the senior trip to Washington during the Easter Holidays. The contrast between Addison and the District of Columbia will be very great as spring has already started in that area. Many crops have been planted there while at the present time spring seems far removed from Addison.

The experimental farm of the United States Department of Agriculture is located in Beltsville, Maryland, which is just a short drive from the city of Washington. Experiments of both a plant and animal nature in great quantities are carried on at this station. Plants from all over the country are produced at Beltsville while many feeding and breeding experiments on cattle and other animals are being carried on there.

The regular monthly meeting of the out-of-town school group of young farmers was held Wednesday evening. The meeting was held in conjunction with the County Agricultural Conservation Committee showing the talking picture, "The River".

This picture was shown in the Grange hall by Walter Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service in Bath. The picture depicted the condition of the south following the destruction caused by the Civil War. The soil of the south was depleted of its fertility due to the war and when southern soldiers returned home they found it practically impossible to obtain a living from the land. They went westward to the virgin forests. During the great expansion of building after the war much of the western lands were cleared of timber. This land eroded and the soil was carried down the Mississippi River where it formed bars in the river which later caused the river to overflow its banks, causing great damage to life and property. In the lower Mississippi valley for a distance of about 120 miles.

What has happened in the western part of the country has been more or less true in states bordering on the Atlantic seaboard. Many of the farms on hills which formerly produced sufficient yields that a farmer and his family could make a living, however under constant cropping and without the addition of any humus matter by planting under green manure crops, many of the hill farms have become depleted and hence have been abandoned.

The motion pictures show how farmer organizations working through the government have attempted to overcome these erosion difficulties by the use of certain crops and the development of certain plants which are more tolerant of adverse conditions.

The monthly meeting of the Teachers of Agriculture and Home Making of Steuben County was held in the Greenwood Central School Monday, March 18. Miss Jones and Mr. Harrison, teachers of home making and agriculture acted as Greenwood hosts. There were 30 teachers in the group. After a dinner was served in the Karlen home, the groups went to the school.

The Home Making teachers discussed the problem of keeping classroom and school inventories. The discussion was led by Miss Viola Vail of Corning Northside.

The teachers of Agriculture had as their speaker Dr. Burnett of the College of Veterinary Medicine of Cornell University. Dr. Burnett gave an interesting talk on poultry diseases, touching mainly on the causes and types of colds in poultry flocks. After his talk Dr. Burnett performed post mortem examinations on about a dozen birds which had been brought to the meeting by the teachers of Agriculture.

It was found that the most common cause of death in these birds was tumor for which there is no known cure.

A short business meeting was held to close the evening's program. The meeting was conducted by Leonard Palmer of Corning Northside president of the county group.

The next meeting will be held in

Mrs. Bean Hostess to Presbyterians Miss. Society

The March meeting of the Ladies Missionary Club of the Presbyterian Church of the home of Mrs. Stuart Bean, Wednesday afternoon. The assistant hostess was Mrs. Matthew Whitmore.

The study topic for the day was Japan. Articles on the topic were given by Mrs. W. S. Long, Mrs. W. M. Goff and Mrs. J. V. Axtell. The devotions and business meeting were led by the president, Mrs. Charles L. Crane. The members were given the opportunity to see the sewing which has been done for hospitals in Korea by Steuben Presbyterians. Mrs. Bean being county chairman of this work.

Refreshments were served, those present in addition to the ladies mentioned were: Mrs. Charles Brewster, Mrs. John Russ, Mrs. Irving R. Gladstone, Mrs. Elbert Crane, Mrs. Maurice E. Miller, Mrs. Elroy Hannahs, Mrs. Ray S. Brown, Miss Carrie S. Cowles, Miss May Sackett and Miss Hazel Space.

College Students Expected Home for Easter

Familiar faces of young people will be noted about the village for the next ten days when college and normal students return to their Addison homes for the Easter recess.

Among those expected here are: Miss Ellen Knebel, Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs; Miss Mary Whitmore, Rider College, Trenton; Miss Gayle Mapes, Russell Sage College, Troy; Miss Betty Pepper, Miss Evelyn Sherwood, Miss Joanne Hickey, Genesee Normal; Miss Betty Perry, Edward Sprague and John Orr, Fredonia Normal; Miss Janet Whitmore, William Wilson, Cortland Normal; Miss Betty Gene Hickey, Syracuse University; Maurice Robbins, Ithaca College; Miss Madeline Short, Alfred University.

Luncheon Meet For DAR Friday

The March meeting of Onwentsia Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution was held in the American Hotel Friday afternoon. The meeting was a luncheon meeting in charge of Mrs. Maple Woodhouse Mrs. Clarence Reilly and Mrs. D. H. Orr.

The St. Patrick's theme was carried out in table decorations with shamrocks and green candles forming the basis for the trimmings. Mrs. Winfield Long, regent of the chapter, was in charge of the business meeting. Women of the chapter voted to ask the state legislature to favor a bill for billboard censorship on the New York State highways.

Mrs. Long conducted a true and false quiz on the Constitution. A book review on "Defending America" was given by Mrs. George Freeman.

Hostesses for the April meeting will be Mrs. Claude Martin, Mrs. Vedder A. Manley and Miss Helen Smith.

Lucky 13 Win Girls Basketball Honors in AHS

The Lucky 13 proved to be just that in their competition against other teams in the Addison High School girls intra-mural athletics. They won the basketball championship Wednesday noon, defeating the Standbys 12 to 8.

Mary Horey is captain of the winning team and Blanche Shelansky is manager. Other members of the championship squad are: Martha Laffkas, Betty Jean Kennedy, Elizabeth Mitchell, Catherine Brooks, Esther Whitmore, Leona Easton, Lorraine Stone, Mary Perry, Dorothy Walbridge and Alice Smith.

Badminton is the next game for which the various girls teams in the intra-mural program will compete for honors.

Sheriff Balcom is Young GOP Nominee

Sheriff Benjamin H. Balcom is the nominee for Seventh District Young Republicans for Steuben County governor. Mrs. Henry Sanford of Bath was proposed for co-governor. Edwin P. Smith of Bath, is the present Steuben governor.

Nominations were made as about 50 District Young Republicans conferred at Geneva Saturday. The election of district and county officers takes place at the state convention in Utica, May 17 and 18. Steuben representatives at the Geneva session were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanford of Bath.

Mr. Balcom has been an active Republican worker and when the Corning Young Republican Club was organized in 1936, he was elected president. He has been sheriff of Steuben County since January 1, of this year.

Jasper during April. A speaker on insects injurious to field crops in this area will be present. The host teacher will be Louis Laughlin of Jasper.

Tribute to Youth Leaders Paid By George King at Ad Club

District Attorney tells men these leaders save communities thousands of dollars by leading young in right paths—Andrew Knebel appointed Boy Scout troop committee head.

Ministers, school teachers and those who work with youth groups are doing more to enforce the law from a dollars and cents proposition than all the law enforcement agencies in the county in the opinion of District Attorney George A. King. He voiced this opinion in a talk given to members of the Advertising Club of Addison at a dinner meeting held Thursday night in the Masonic Hall, with members of the Eastern Star serving.

President Milton H. Crane, presided, Kenneth Farrell was presented as the guest of the Rev. Mondula C. Johns. Mr. Farrell was a cadet teacher in high school from Syracuse University. President Crane stated a report from the Cattle Auction committee will be made at the next meeting.

Knebel Heads Scouts
Andrew W. Knebel was appointed chairman of the Boy Scout troop committee. This has been held by Dr. Matthew Whitmore for the past two years. He relinquished the position feeling that he had served his time. Mr. Knebel will have the power of appointing his own committee members. He stated that he would like to have a Father and Son banquet and asked the cooperation of the members in that affair. The troop is sponsored by the Advertising Club.

John B. Davis was appointed chairman of a Sales Day program to be held this spring and those who will serve with him are Chester Arnett, Laverne W. Barr, Guy Ricker and Jay Mose. Charles A. Brewster is in charge of the next meeting March 27.

Attorney Charles L. Crane substituted for Dr. H. E. Auringer, who was unable to be present. Mr. Crane presented the speaker of the evening.

Attorney King
District Attorney King said he would speak on a matter close to his own work and one in which he believed the men would be interested. This is "The Youth Problem". He said in part: "There is a situation which confronts us throughout the nation in the unabashed youth graduated from high schools. We are all non-political when it comes to youth, health, our homes and the future."

"Let me say at the outset that I have no sympathy for and do not concur with those who are continually linking crime and youth for self notoriety and to capitalize for mercenary purposes."

"Youth are just the same today with their pranks as always. And let me congratulate the Advertiser on not printing the petty crimes of youth. There is a mental torture in publicity for the first offender which may cause a mental shock and last throughout the life of the individual."

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dann and family entertained Sunday in honor of the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Mrs. Roland Dininny. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Van Dusen and children, Teddy Ann and Joan of Farmington, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dininny and daughter Mary; and Donald White of Troupsburg.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

A Girl Scout meeting was held in the Scout room Thursday, March 4. Mrs. Helen J. Wilson and Miss Louise Miller took charge.

Mrs. Wilson gave each of the three patrols a Girl Scout law to enact.

After this the girls joined their groups. Under Mrs. Wilson's direction, St. Patrick's Day or Irish songs were sung. Miss Miller instructed the other group in tying knots.

Present were Vivian Thomas, Helen Lyons, Martha Laffkas, Norma Burrell, Mary E. Hess, Grace and Marjorie Ryal, Shirley and Helen Auringer, Florence and Ellen Butler, Mary McCarthy, Norma Grandon, Barbara Lowe, Frances Bennett, Audrey Russ, Geraldine Martin, Isabelle Brown, Margaret Gladstone and Helen Dann.

ENCOURAGEMENT IN ANY LANGUAGE

When our friends commend our Elkland Journal editorial policies, we thank them kindly for their encouragement; but when others, who do not approve the same policies, extend complimentary remarks; well it is just too much for words. It happened last week when one of two C.I.O.'ers admitted that the Journal had balked all attempts to bring tannery workers into a dominant C. I. O. group. His not-so-intended compliment was: "If we had your x!x!x! paper on our side we would win". The same kind of thanks and modest expression of appreciation is extended to these gentlemen of the local C.I.O. unit.—Elkland Journal.

BORDEN

Fenton-Magoon
Rowland J. Fenton and Miss Mary C. Magoon, both of Addison were married at the Baptist parsonage in Borden Saturday evening, March 16 by the Rev. Elwyn Baker. They were attended by Leo Baker and Miss Phyllis Martin. Mr. and Mrs. Fenton will continue to reside in Addison until spring when they will remove to his farm near Borden.

Miss Edith Gould who has been staying at the home of her grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gould is able to be out again.

DAIRY LEAGUE MEET

Dairymen's League members, such of them as could get to the meeting, met in an informal gathering Friday night for a short business meeting and game program. The session was one of a series of monthly meetings planned to get members together. Storm drifted roads kept many members from attending the meeting. That plus a snow storm reduced attendance.

A Sense of Responsibility

THE sudden visitation of death

in a family necessarily creates a great deal of bewilderment and confusion. Under the mental and emotional stress of the crisis, the bereaved relatives are at a disadvantage in facing the many duties and problems which arise.

Into this situation comes the modern funeral director, a man qualified by long training and experience to give the necessary advice and assistance. He is more than a business man; he has a professional sense of moral responsibility to protect the interests of those who have confided in him.

This sense of responsibility is the guiding principle of our organization. In every case we consider the client as a friend who needs our help in one of the great crises of life.

Donald Stanford was in Addison Saturday.

Mrs. Ella Dewick, daughter Evelyn, also Adelaide, Jack and Frank Campbell, Jr., were in Hornell Sunday evening to see their mother, Mrs. Frank Campbell. Mrs. Campbell is recovering from a major operation at the home of her nephew Hiram Crosby.

Fred Gerald and Mary Jane Tompkins accompanied by their cousin, Sam Marts of Woodhull spent Sunday evening in Hornell with their sister, Mrs. Earl Bebout and family.

E. Tompkins and sons Fred and Myron are trucking hay from the western part of the state to farmers in this section.

Deer Destruction Laid To Dogs, Not Starvation

Dogs are proving a real danger to the deer of this area according to Game Warden Ray S. Reed. There were 11 deer killed in the vicinity. Most of those slain were not destroyed, indicating the dogs were killing for the love of the kill rather than for meat. Throats were slit, legs torn and other parts of the bodies lacerated before death overcame many of the animals.

There is a night quarantine on dogs still in effect in this county and peace officers are asked to see that it is enforced, for the protection of deer and sheep. This county's sheep bill, sheep destroyed by dogs, was the highest of any in the state. The taxpayers have to foot the bill.

None of the deer found dead had died of starvation according to Warden Reed, for they are wintering well in spite of deep snows.

Rathbone Grangers To Celebrate Founding of Local Grange

Rathbone Friday, March 22, will be a gala day at Rathbone for on that day members of Rathbone Grange No. 856 will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Rathbone lodge. They will also celebrate the clearing of debt on the hall by burning the mortgage.

There will be a dinner at noon—one of those justly famous good Grange dinners; the program in the afternoon will be featured by an address by the Rev. Mr. Beck of Cameron and Albert Loper of Addison, oldest living member is also expected to make some remarks. A large crowd of past, as well as present, members is expected to be present to help make this day one to live long in the memories of all those who attend.

Richard McCaig is the present master and Mrs. Milo Saxton the secretary.

Addison Girl Queen Of St. Patrick Festival

Miss Madeline Short, a Liberal Arts senior at Alfred University, was crowned queen of the St. Patrick's festival at the annual ball climaxed the two-day St. Pat's Festival staged by the senior engineering students. As the patron saint of all engineers as well as of the Irish, the venerable snake chaser is non-ored by the seniors of the College of Ceramics each year at the weekend nearest his birthday.

MISS MADELINE SHORT

The festival started Thursday morning with a parade of floats entered by the various campus organizations, at which St. Patrick, impersonated by one of the engineering seniors made a dramatic appearance and led the student body to the weekly assembly. At this affair he delivered an address in which he lampooned various faculty members and others who have attained some prominence around the campus. The assembly was followed in the afternoon by a tea dance in the lounge of the Ceramic College, and by an open house in the evening at which several ceramic manufacturers exhibited their products and a special exhibition of glass blowing by engineers from the Corning Glass Works was staged.

On Friday afternoon there was a special variety show, and the ball in the evening concluded the festival. The coronation of Miss Short took place during the intermission of the ball, and until that moment the identity of the student chosen for the honor was held in deep secrecy. She was attended in the coronation by ten other fair co-eds who were runners-up in the selection. The entire choice was made by secret ballot of the student body, and the results of the vote were not made known until the time of the coronation.

Miss Short was an attendant at last year's festival, also. She is president of Sigma Chi Nu sorority, and last year served on the Women's Student Government board. During her freshman year she was secretary of her class, and has been active in the campus Y.W.C.A.

February Report Shows Small Drop In Milk Volume

The six plants approved for the New York Marketing Area in Steuben county received from producers during the month of February 5,367,088 pounds of milk, according to a report of E. M. Harmon, Administrator of the Federal-State Orders regulating the handling of milk in the market.

Based on the uniform producer price, this milk had a value to producers of $112,700.41. Under the terms of the Federal-State Orders handlers operating plants are required to pay producers for their February milk on or before March 25.

The amount to be paid to Steuben county producers is based on the uniform producer price of $2.10 per hundredweight of 3.5 per cent butterfat content milk in the 201-210 mile zone from New York City. At any individual plant, the price to the farmer may vary. While all milk received at a New York approved plant is covered by the Orders to the extent that it must be reported and audited yet a plant may have milk sold outside the marketing area in either Class I or Class II-A. In such case this is unpriced milk and the uniform price does not apply, but rather the price paid to producers will be in accordance with the bargaining arrangements with the handlers. In the case of cooperative associations of dairymen, the price is subject to the agreement between the association and its members.

At various plants in the county approved for the Metropolitan area, the uniform price of $2.10 is subject to minus freight differentials ranging from three and one-half cents to five and one-half cents per hundredweight. Addison, Bath and Campbell carry a three and one-half cent adjustment; at Prattisburg it is four and one-half cents, and five and one-half at Wallace. The uniform price will also be affected by plus or minus differentials for milk testing above or below 3.5 per cent butterfat content.

There were 388,545,532 pounds of milk considered in the February market wide pool. Of this amount

Mrs. Mary LeMunyan Buried Sunday Afternoon

The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. LeMunyan, widow of Albert LeMunyan, was held from the late home on Tuscarora street Sunday afternoon. The Rev. John V. Axtell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church officiated, burial being in the family plot in Addison Rural Cemetery. She died at 12:20 Thursday afternoon, March 14, 1940, following the fracture of a hip suffered March 3 in a fall at her home.

Mrs. LeMunyan was the oldest resident of Addison, having passed her 93rd birthday last month.

Her maiden name was Mary Ann Knapp, she having been born at Belfast, N. Y., February 4, 1847 the daughter of Simeon and Caroline Root Knapp. Her early girlhood was spent near Risingville, on Goodhue Hill and in the town of Cameron. She also made her home for a time with her brothers in Painted Post and Chicago.

She was married October 21, 1872 to Mr. LeMunyan who was a Civil War veteran. The couple lived in Tuscarora nearly forty years before moving to Addison into the home on Tuscarora street where the remainder of her long life has been spent. Mr. LeMunyan died December 27, 1924. Her granddaughter, Miss Marian Roach of Canisteo has been residing with her for the past three years.

Mrs. LeMunyan was formerly affiliated with Tuscarora Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. She attended the Baptist Church and was favorably known in the community.

Her chief interests in life were centered in her home, but during her active years she was ever ready to show her kindness and sympathy for others with neighborly deeds in sickness and other times of trouble. Despite her advanced age Mrs. LeMunyan retained most of her faculties to a remarkable degree, her mind remaining keen and her will to be active was strong up to the time of the fatal accident.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Herbert L. Seelye of Academy Cor-

Hess, Norma Grandon, Shirley Auringer, Thelma DeGraw, Evelyn McAllister, Maynard Lyon, Norma Burrell, John Brennan, Victor Demorest, Leland Housel, Leonard Housel, Carl Jackson, Richard Moore, Arthur Moyer.

Funeral Services For V. A. Manley Held Thursday

Dress-up YOUR HOME for SPRING!

EASTER brings joy to every heart—and this year, particularly—for it ushers in a new Season of bright sun-shiny days; it is the signal for flowers to awake and get busy; it is literally the "go" sign for everything in nature and is reflected in our moods, ambitions and achievements.

And sunshine does more to "show off" a home than all the artificial lights you could gather. A hard winter, with many long hours spent in the home, raises Cain with home furnishings—so at Easter your thoughts should not be directed to self alone, but your home should come in for its fair share. Perhaps it is a suite that is needed, or just an odd chair. The bedroom needs a new dressing, or something to fit in your scheme. The dining room and kitchen need new furnishings. Whatever the needs may be, you are sure to find the correct thing at an economical price at this fifty-year-old rendezvous of home-makers.

Farmers Study Horses At Hornell Meet

Hundreds of farmers are expected to attend the horse meeting to be held at the sales stables of Thacher Bros., Hornell, Saturday afternoon, March 23, to hear Joe Vial, noted horse breeder of Maryland, discuss the fine points of the care and management of horses.

Twelve thousand horses provide the motive power on thousands of Steuben County farms, and of the livestock kept on these farms, only dairy cattle exceed horses in number and value.

Two score of horses will be lined up for inspection in the sales stables of Thacher Bros., on the Almond Road near Hornell, including some of the finest animals this firm has brought into the county in the quarter of a century it has been in business.

Joe Vial, a member of the staff of the Maryland Agricultural College, was for many years a breeder of fine horses and is considered to be one of the best judges of draft animals in the United States.

The Steuben County Farm Bureau, sponsor of the event, invites all interested farmers to attend. The meeting begins promptly at 1:30.

Geneva—Albert R. Schmiedake has been appointed executive of the Finger Lakes Boy Scout Council.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

SURROGATE'S COURT
COUNTY OF STEUBEN
IN THE ESTATE
JAMES E. HIBBARD,
Deceased.

Pursuant to an order of Hon. George W. Pratt, Surrogate of the County of Steuben, duly made and entered in the Surrogate's Office in the Village of Bath, N. Y., on the 19th day of March, 1940, I, Casper Hibbard, Administrator of the goods, chattels and credits of James E. Hibbard, late of the Town of Addison, in the County of Steuben and State of New York, will expose at public sale to the highest bidder at the front door of the Law Offices of Charles L. Crane on the West side of Main Street in the Village of Addison, Steuben County, New York, on the 13th day of April, 1940 at ten o'clock in the forenoon:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Addison, in the County of Steuben and State of New York, known as the James E. Hibbard homestead, containing about ten acres of land as described in a deed from Orren L. Swan to James E. Hibbard recorded in Steuben County Clerk's Office in Liber 268 of Deeds at page 480.

EXCEPTING AND RESERVING from the description in said deed that portion of the same conveyed to John N. Gee by deed recorded in Steuben County Clerk's Office in Liber 295 of Deeds at page 583, and also that portion conveyed to John W. Sports

College crews are beginning preparations for the June regatta at Poughkeepsie. This is the highlight of a long and intensive grind on the part of college rowers, who do not get the credit that football and basketball players receive.

The horse racing season in New York State is expected to open at the Jamaica track in New York around April 15. The pari-mutuel betting commissioners are still wondering about the details of the state plan they passed last year.

Sun Valley, Idaho is the mecca for world skiers this week with national championships being tried there. It is a bleak looking place with resort hotels aplenty. Skiers are hauled to the top of a two-mile hill in chairs on an endless belt running high in the air. This carry is called "Chairway to the stars."

Believe it or not, Duke defeated Clemson College at football Saturday to the tune of 26 to 0 in a spring practice game. If the vicinity colleges here want to play football, it would have to be on skis or in rubber boots.

The match between Valentine Campolo and Eddy Baer was called off Wednesday night when Jimmy Johnston, manager for the South American took his protégé to Murray Hill hospital for some rib trouble. Dr. Walker of the State Athletic Commission stated the boxer was O. K. Anyway, the fight was called off.

Indoor baseball has been curtailed in the Addison High School for the present time for lack of room. Exercises are being given to lumber up the arms of the boys who expect to be on the firing line this year. And it looks like tough going with few seasoned veterans in the Knights lineup.

Things seem to be going along pretty good in most of the training camps with few injuries being reported among the older players.

Perhaps the biggest news of the week was the fact that the New York Yankees of the American League are for sale. This baseball empire, which has reigned as top team for several seasons may be sold to a syndicate headed by Governor Murphy of New Hampshire. The reported price is $6,000,000. That would include the team and properties.

Not to crowd baseball too much, but the Eastern College All-Stars will train in August at Cornell-on-the-Hudson with Tuss McLaughrey of Brown as their coach. The New York Giants professional football team will be the opponents.

Jesse Owens and Frank Wyckoff, 100 yard dash champions have another in tie for their place for Clyde Jeffery of Stamford University ran the 100 yards in 9.4 seconds at Long Beach, California, Saturday. This 9.4 is a world record.

Finland, a practically conquered nation after four months of crushing fighting, has not given up hope of holding the 1940 Olympics there. However, it is a guess that the famous athletic meet will not be held there. In spite of uncertain conditions U. S. athletes are to prepare for races anyway.

"Pinocchio" Starts At Fox Theatre 10 A. M. Saturday

Coming to the Fox Theatre next, Saturday is the widely acclaimed Walt Disney second full-length production, "Pinocchio", an adaptation of the story, beloved of grown-ups and children alike.

"Pinocchio" was written during the latter part of the last century by Carlo Lorenzini under the pen name of C. Collodi. Collodi had been Lorenzini's nickname since his childhood and was the name of his mother's home village.

The story first appeared in installments in a popular Italian magazine under the title of "Le Avventure di Pinocchio". In the early 1900's the story was first published in the United States, in book form, and became an immediate success. Today it is considered a childhood classic, with a host of adult admirers.

The author was born in 1826 and died in 1890, after leading an unusually full and varied life. In his prime, he was the editor of a leading Italian newspaper. In addition, he received decorations from the army for valor. He started to write children's books only after he retired from public life. Although the Disney Technicolor version of "Pinocchio" differs somewhat from the original story because of the demands of the motion picture medium, the essential flavor of the Collodi story has been preserved and lovers of the tale will not be disappointed when they see the colorful RKO Radio release on the screen.

For the benefit of the few who were not introduced to the delights of "Pinocchio", suffice it to say that the story concerns an old woodcarver named Geppetto, who creates a little puppet boy of pine. Because the kindly old man loves children and has never had any of his own the Blue Fairy brings the marionette to life to be a son to him. The fairy tells Pinocchio, however, that he cannot become a real boy until he has proved himself worthy. The rest of the story concerns the mischievous Pinocchio's many scrapes and adventures before he becomes worthy of being Geppetto's son.

Pike—Boy Scouts of this community are asking householders doing their spring housecleaning to keep all newspapers and magazines which will be collected by the Scouts to raise money for troop activities.

Finland, a practically conquered nation after four months of crushing fighting, has not given up hope of holding the 1940 Olympics there. However, it is a guess that the famous athletic meet will not be held there. In spite of uncertain conditions U. S. athletes are to prepare for races anyway.

Order of Worship
Let the people kneel or bow in silent prayer upon entering the sanctuary.
The Prelude. (The people in devout meditation).
Hymn: Holy, Holy. (People standing).
The Call to Worship
Prayer—(People seated, bowed or kneeling. To be said by all).
Our Heavenly Father, who by Thy love has kept us, and in Thy love wouldst make us perfect, we humbly confess that we have not loved Thee with all our heart and soul and mind and strength, and that we have not loved one another as Christ hath loved us. Thy life is within our souls, but our selfishness hath hindered Thee. We have resisted Thy Spirit. We have neglected Thine inspiration.

Forgive what we have been; help us to amend what we are; and in Thy Spirit direct what we shall be; that Thou mayest come into the full glory of Thy creation, in us and in all men, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Pupils of Allen District
Hear Story of Easter

The pupils of Allen District were told both by beautiful colored pictures and story, the story of Easter, Friday. This is part of an Easter unit which they have worked out in March. Later in the day the children gave a program which they had planned themselves. Their program follows: March Wind, Virginia Jackson; Pussy-willows, Jerry Tomb; How to Work, Loretta Tomb; Wonderful Holland, Delores Jackson; Springtime, Dialogue by four people; Pussywillow, Percy Hargrave; An Easter Party, Dorothy Jackson; March Song, entire school.

Following the program an Easter party was held in which the children hunted Easter eggs and rolled eggs. Refreshments were then served.

Miss Ruby Mose, front street is teacher in Allen District.

LINDSLEY INJURED
Bernard Lindsley was severely bruised when a car he was driving turned over three times early Sunday morning. He was driving east at the time when his car skidded on some ice, struck a snow bank and was forced into a pole. The side of the car which struck was badly damaged.

MASONIC LECTURER
Franklin C. Empey of Bath has been appointed Assistant, Grand Lecturer of Steuben Masonic District. It has been announced by District Deputy Acton M. Hill of Hornell. Mr. Empey takes the place made vacant through the resignation of M. John Law of Corning.

Bath—Most of the tents owned by Camp Gorton, Boy Scout camp, were burned in a fire which destroyed a local awning shop last week. They were being repaired.
